East and West Conflict Arises Again in the UN

Hungary, Red China Questions To Come Up Monday Afternoon

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) — Delegates to the General Assembly took advantage of a week end lull today to survey the "battle lines" of East-West conflict drawn during the first week of the assembly's 12th session.

No formal U.N. activity was scheduled today except a closed meeting of the advisory committee on the emergency force that is patrolling the troubled borders of the Middle East. A report on the current status of UNEF is expected early next week.

Monday morning's assembly session will be devoted to policy speeches by Peru, Canada, Colombia and New Zealand—all nations friendly to the West.

East and West will not come to grips again until Monday afternoon, when the General Assembly decides whether to include two controversial items—Hungary and Red China's right to a U.N. seat—in its agenda.

Each Blames Other

The world body is expected to approve discussion of Hungary and to ban consideration this year of the perennial issue of China.

This week, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on Thursday and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on Friday laid down the lines of conflict which are expected to dominate much of the assembly's coming debate.

Each blamed the other for the current troubles of the Middle East, and each urged the assembly to adopt the proposals for disarmament advanced by his side in the deeply-divided world.

Irish Foreign Minister Frank Aiken injected an unexpected note into the debate Friday by proposing that all of the Big Four powers "draw back" from the Mideast and abandon the "acute diplomatic competition" there and elsewhere which might touch off World War III.

Spokesmen for the United Nation's 82 member nations were busy studying the U.S. and Russian texts today and conferring among themselves behind the scenes, trying to estimate the prospects for progress on major issues confronting the assembly.

King Haakon of Norway Dies in Sleep at Age 85

OSLO, Norway (UP) — King Haakon VII of Norway died in his sleep today at the age of 85, plunging into sorrow a nation which had idolized its monarch for saying no to Hitler and traitor Quisling in the face of certain defeat.

King Haakon

He was the world's oldest reigning king and had ruled Norway since it won independence from Sweden in 1905.

Stolid Norwegians, hearing of his death by word of mouth, radio and black-bordered newspapers, stopped in the streets, bowed their heads, removed their caps and wept.

The Danish-born king had been suffering for more than two years as a result of a hip fracture which never healed fully because of his age.

In the last few days a respiratory ailment put him on the critical list and doctors prepared the people for the end. His heart stopped at 4:35 this morning.

Crown Prince Olav, Haakon's only child, automatically became king and swore allegiance to the Norwegian constitution at an extraordinary cabinet meeting at the palace this morning.

When Norway broke from Swedish rule in 1905 to become an independent nation, the young Danish prince was asked to ascend the throne of Norway.

He agreed, but only on condition the people accept him. In a plebiscite that November, he got 80 per cent of the votes.

Morganza Will Be Expanded; Get New Name

CANONSBURG, Pa. (UP)—State Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro disclosed Friday the state will spend $26,500,000 for construction of facilities for the treatment of emotionally disturbed and mentally retarded children.

Of that sum, $7,500,000 will be spent at the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza near here. The remainder will be allocated to institutions at White Haven, near Hazleton, Ben Salem, near Philadelphia, and Ebensburg.

Construction of the facilities by the General State Authority is expected to be completed with 18 months to two years, Shapiro said.

Antiquated buildings at Morganza will be torn down, he said, and new village-type structures will be erected. Eventually, Morganza will be able to accommodate 1,000 children, more than triple the number it now can handle.

Shapiro also said the Morganza institution would be re-named. A new name has not yet been chosen, he said.

Woman Killed in Three-car Crash

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa. (UP)—Mrs. Mary Murray, 52, Temple City, Calif., was injured fatally Friday in a three-car collision on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near the Allegheny Valley Interchange.

The woman died in Citizens General Hospital several hours after the accident.

Her husband, George, 52, was reported in critical condition at the hospital.

County GOP Slams Judges For Endorsing Candidates

An endorsement by Westmoreland County's sitting judges of three Democratic nominees for common pleas court evoked a sharp reaction from the Republican side today.

Edwin A. Swink, GOP county chairman, called the endorsement "disgusting political effrontery" and one of the Republican candidates asked the judges to repudiate their stand.

"The judges action was not totally surprising in view of the disregard for ethics shown by various Democratic office holders," charged Swink.

His bristling statement came after Judges Richard D. Laird, John O'Connell and Charles D. Copeland issued a joint public endorsement of the Democratic nominees.

Avra N. Pershing, one of the three Republican candidates, revealed today that he has mailed letters to each of the sitting judges asking them to repudiate their action.

Asks Repudiation

"I can not believe that you have made such an announcement in view of our friendship and of the 28th canon of judicial ethics of the American Bar Association," Pershing wrote in his letter.

The 28th canon advises judges against political speeches and endorsements.

"If you are incorrectly quoted in the newspapers I know that you would want to have it called to our attention so that you might repudiate such a statement wrote Pershing. "However, if you should have made such a statement I believe it would be proper that it be rescinded in keeping with the 28th canon."

Swink and Pershing also questioned the "ethics" involved in the appearance of Judge Samuel Weiss of Allegheny County as toastmaster for a "political" dinner meeting earlier in the week at Bildoc Hills Country Club. The meeting was sponsored by the Independent Citizens Committee of Westmoreland County.

Swink said this committee came into being after the selection of David Weiss of Monessen as the third Democratic candidate for a judgeship in the Nov. 5 election. Weiss has since been appointed by Gov. George M. Leader to the court for the remainder of the year to fill a vacancy created by

Prudential to Move Offices Over Week End

Equipment and files will be moved over the week end into the new Prudential Insurance Co. district office in the Monessen Shopping Center, it was announced today.

Roland E. Bunting, manager of Prudential's Monessen district, said the new office will be open for business on Monday. He said Prudential will close its old location on the second floor at 467 Donner Ave. this afternoon.

Bunting also announced that the Monessen and Charleroi offices will be combined in the new building at the Shopping Center. A total of 27 agents, four staff managers and ten clerical workers will work out of the combined office.

Prudential's new district address will be 1743 Grand Blvd., Monessen.

Bunting said the Brownsville office, also included in the Monessen district, will not be affected by the change.

Prudential will lease its new office space from the Adamsburg Realty Co., Bunting stated.

Chamber Signs 25 New Members

Twenty-five new members have been signed by the Monessen Chamber of Commerce since an "all-out" membership drive began Monday, it was announced today by Harold B. Cramer, membership chairman.

Fifteen more new members are needed to bring the Chamber's membership to 500, an all-time high. A. E. Wilen and Paul T. Nicoden, campaign chairman, said they expect to reach to 500 goal by Wednesday.

If the goal is reached, membership committeemen will be treated to a professional football game in Pittsburgh and also a dinner at Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

Woman Files for Accident Damages

A Monongahela woman has filed a damage suit in Washington County Court against Joseph Bucci, Monessen, as a result of an auto accident on October 27 of last year.

Eleanor Sturlese is seeking to recover damages in excess of $25,000 for injuries alleged to have been received when the defendant lost control of his car and struck a utility pole on Route 322 in Center County. The plaintiff, who was a passenger in the car, avers that she was seriously and permanently injured.

Five Killed in Accident on State Turnpike

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Five Oregon persons, including two young children, were killed Friday evening when their automobile crossed the medial strip on the Pennsylvania Turnpike and collided head-on with a tractor-trailer.

The dead were identified tentatively as John M. Kelly, 26, of 525 East Fairfield St., Gladstone, Ore., his wife, Hazel, 27, and their daughter, Susan, 1, and Mrs. Barbara E. Young, 22, of Route 1, Box 87, Beaver Creek, Ore., and her daughter, Patricia, 18 months.

The victims were enroute from Brooklyn, N.Y., to Cleveland to meet Mrs. Young's husband, Donald, who was a brother of Mrs. Kelly.

State police said the two families had moved from Oregon about two weeks ago to 55 North Elliott St., Brooklyn. Donald Young continued at his job in Oregon and was to rejoin his family later.

State police said the victims' auto, bearing California plates and driven by Kelly, apparently skidded in the rain on the turnpike near the Pittsburgh Interchange. It veered across the medial strip and collided with a tractor-trailer operated by Thurman D. Korns, Stoyestown RD 3, Somerset County, Pa., who was not injured.

Teamster Answer To AFL-CIO Is Reported in Mail

MIAMI BEACH (UP) — Teamsters President Dave Beck said that a letter replying to an AFL-CIO charge that the trucking union was dominated by "corrupt" influences was en route today to AFL-CIO President George Meany in New York.

Beck, retiring and troubled chief of the 1,400,000 - man union, refused to divulge what the letter said, but the reply to the blistering AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee charges was expected to be fiery.

He said he dispatched the answer to Meany by telephone via his secretary in Washington. He said he told his secretary to forward the letter immediately to Meany in New York.

The letter, apparently drafted by the Teamsters Executive Board now meeting here in closed session, was the Teamsters answer to the charges that it "has been and continues to be dominated or substantially influenced by corrupt influences."

Health Insurance Series on Monday

There are 118 million Americans today with some sort of medical insurance. It is one of the most spectacular developments on the social scene since the war, for in 1940 only 3 million had such insurance.

United Press Correspondent Jack V. Fox has gathered information from doctors, insurance companies, labor unions and others for a five-part series on health insurance which will appear in The Daily Independent starting Monday.

Faubus Pulls Troops In Little Rock; Says His 'Fight Not Over'

Disclaims Responsibility for Violence in Integration Battle

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP) — Gov. Orval Faubus today dumped Little Rock's integration problem into the hands of local and federal authorities and disclaimed responsibility for any violence that may occur Monday when unguarded white schools will be opened to Negroes.

Faubus, who pulled National Guardsmen from their posts outside Central High School Friday night in bowing to a federal court order, will leave later today with Mrs. Faubus for the southern governors' conference at Sea Island, Ga.

As soon as Faubus leaves, Lt. Gov. Nathan Gordon will take over as Arkansas' chief executive.

Denies Any Defeat

Faubus said in a television speech Friday night he was calling off the troops that had guarded Central High from the first day of the fall term to prevent Negro students from entering.

But he denied he had been defeated in what he termed a preventive action to preserve the peace.

"I'm not beaten," Faubus told a newsman who had put the defeat question to him bluntly. "This fight is not over."

Guardsmen left the school only a few hours after Federal Judge Ronald N. Davies enjoined Faubus and two military aides not to interfere with integration.

Negroes Jubilant

Negroes on the streets of Little Rock were jubilant over Davies' ruling. Some were openly scornful of Faubus.

Unconfirmed reports circulated that a hard core of segregationists among the 1,800 white students at Central High may start trouble Monday and that 400 to 600 students may boycott the school if the Negroes are admitted.

Faubus ordered the National Guardsmen, who have kept Negroes out of the school three weeks, disbanded Friday night 10 minutes before he announced in a television and radio speech that he had surrendered.

Lawyers Boycott Hearing

Faubus' three lawyers walked out of the courtroom when Davies rejected two motions for dismissing the Justice Department's petition for a temporary injunction.

They boycotted the hearing, while the government called witnesses to testify that there was no threat of violence when Faubus called out troops at Central High Sept. 2.

The injunction is temporary and Faubus said his lawyers will appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Little Rock Is Asked by Ike To Accept Order

NEWPORT, R.I. (UP)—President Eisenhower today counseled the people of Little Rock, Ark., to comply with court-ordered school integration "without disorder."

The Chief Executive in a special statement expressed his first public opinion on the withdrawal of Arkansas National Guardsmen from Central High School in Little Rock in compliance with a temporary injunction issued by Federal District Judge Ronald N. Davies.

The President called withdrawal of the troops by Gov. Orval E. Faubus "a necessary step in the right direction."

"I am confident," he said, "that the citizens of the city of Little Rock and the state of Arkansas will welcome this opportunity to demonstrate that in their city and in their state proper orders of a United States court will be executed promptly and without disorder."

The President's statement was issued by his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, at the vacation White House here on Narragansett Bay.

Eisenhower conferred early today by telephone with Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., in Washington, and expected to talk with him again during the day.

Hagerty pointed out to reporters that the school board was meeting in Little Rock today and apparently the White House and the Justice Department were closely interested in proceedings of the board.

Hagerty said he thought he would have an additional statement either from the White House or the President later this afternoon in connection with the school integration situation. He set no time for this statement.

Indian Creek Persons Protest Big Reservoir

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (UP)—John H. Ware, Philadelphia water company tycoon, was burned in effigy Friday night by members of a committee protesting a proposed 200-million dollar reservoir that would inundate the Indian Creek Valley near here.

Atty. William H. Soisson, the principal speaker at the protest meeting, bitterly attacked state Senate bill 676 which permits county authorities to cross county lines to exercise the right of eminent domain. The bill was approved unanimously by the state Senate and House of Representatives and signed by Gov. George M. Leader.

The reservoir proposed by Ware would make use of this bill to construct a dam which would require the evacuation of about 1,500 families in the Indian Creek district.

Steps Taken for District Planning

Groundwork plans have been established for the formation of a Monongahela Valley Regional Planning Commission among district Washington County communities.

Each community will have to file an "expression of intent" showing their intent to associate with the planning body. About two years will be required for a consultant firm to prepare plans for the final program.

Communities showing an interest are Charleroi, Donora, Monongahela, Fallowfield and Carroll townships.

Courthouse Dome Needs Repairs, Engineer Says

The gilded dome on the Westmoreland county courthouse in Greensburg will probably have to undergo some major repairs in the near future.

County Highways Engineer Ben R. Hebrank reported to the Board of County Commissioners this week that water has been leaking through in constantly increasing volume.

Unless something is done soon, Hebrand predicted some serious damage will result.

Commission Chairman Robert Kilgore agreed that the dome is in need of repairs. He said the project may involve some expenditures but added that "it must be undertaken soon."

Hebrand suggested several ways in which the dome might be repaired. The commissioners appeared particularly interested in new plastic materials which are now being used for water-proofing.

This plastic, as well as aluminum covering, may be obtained in a gold tint.

Hebrand promised to check into the matter and present a full report at the next meeting of the commissioners.

Six Arrested For Series of Fayette Thefts

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP) — Five men and a woman were charged Friday night with a long series of burglaries in Fayette County.

State police said the gang's loot was valued at several thousands of dollars. Between $5,000 and $10,000 worth was recovered, the troopers said.

Held without bond for court were Walter Bowman, 49, Fairchance; Emmet G. Watson, 18, Lamont Furnace, and Charles W. Bowman, 28, Hutchinson, all Fayette County, and Russell D. Pierce 25, and James W. Frazier, both of Lackawanna, N.Y.

The woman, Mildred Sullivan, 41, Uniontown RD 2, charged with receiving goods stolen in the burglaries in 1956 and 1957, was released on $500 bond.

The suspects appeared before Justice of the Peace Michael Morganoski of Union Twp.

All the suspects were arrested last week in Lackawanna as a result of state police investigation of a Sept. 8 burglary at the Leibowitz General Store at Uledi, near Uniontown.

Man Hurt in Area Fight

William Nakutis, 23, of Dry Run Rd., Monongahela, is in Monongahela Memorial Hospital today suffering from extensive cuts about the head and body inflicted by a man identified by state police as Robert Rogers, Monongahela.

According to police, Nakutis was cut by a broken beer bottle.

Police said the two were involved in a fight in Union Twp., two miles north of New Eagle, about 10 o'clock last night.

No other details were available this morning.

Jean Sibelius, Famed Composer, Dies at 91

HELSINKI (UP) — Finland mourned today the death of composer Jean Sibelius whose stirring music helped inspire the nation in its struggle for freedom from Russia more than 50 years ago.

Sibelius, who would have been 92 on Dec. 8, died of a brain hemorrhage at his country home Friday night even as British conductor Sir Malcolm Sargent was lifting his baton to conduct Sibelius' Fifth Symphony at University Hall in Helsinki.

Flags fluttered at half staff, today throughout Finland and a state funeral was planned for the man who was revered as the country's leading citizen as well as one of the great composers of all time. Telegrams of condolence poured in from throughout the world.

Sibelius, a tall, bald man had a stern face that seemed hewn out of granite and he usually was smoking a cigar. He burst upon the Finnish scene when the country was swept by a wave of nationalism aimed at making it an independent nation.

His tone poem "Finlandia," which helped inspire his countrymen in their struggle to loosen Russian bonds, speaks of the nationalistic feelings of that period more than 60 years ago.

Sibelius was eating a late breakfast about noon when he suffered the fatal hemorrhage, his physician Dr. Laine Ylijoki, reported. He remained conscious until about 4 p.m.

Dr. Ylijoki said the brain hemorrhage was not expected and the aging composer had been in good health in past months following his long illness. His wife, Aino, and close relatives were present when he died.

He was considered by many as the greatest composer of symphonies since Beethoven. His last symphony, the Seventh, appeared as far back as 1925, but there were recurrent rumors in musical circles the old master was working on his eighth. It never appeared.

His last years have been spent at Ainola, the home he built 50 years ago in the mountain fastness outside Helsinki and which became a shrine for music lovers though he received only a chosen few in his later years.

Council May Rescind Flouridation Decision

Monessen City Council may rescind a decision to place the controversial fluoridation issue on the Nov. 5 general election ballot, it was learned today.

A City Hall source told The Daily Independent there is a "very good possibility" that council will "reconsider" the fluoridation question at its meeting next Wednesday.

Reportedly a majority of council members is ready to rescind the earlier action.

Council agreed unanimously at a meeting on Sept. 11 to place fluoridation question on the general election ballot. Under that resolution, voters would be asked whether or not they wanted the city's water supply fluoridated.

Since then "several" council members have changed their mind about the referendum, it was learned.

Reportedly council is ready to keep the fluoridation issue off the ballot to avoid any possible confusion on another question involving a $200,000 bond issue to help finance construction of a public library.

Leaders of both the Democratic and Republican parties in the city have endorsed the library bond issue.

The Westmoreland county commissioners have already approved the fluoridation question for the Nov. 5 ballot.

However City Solicitor Frank Ezerski said that council is within its legal rights to rescind the resolution if it so desires.

Ezerski said that there will be no special ballots printed for either the library bond or the fluoridation question.

"Where paper ballots are used, the law clearly states that special ballots must be printed for such questions," Ezerski said. "But where voting machines are used, there is no necessity of a special ballot."

Council approved the library bond referendum at its Sept. 11 meeting. In so doing, council indicated its endorsement of the bond.

In authorizing the fluoridation question, council expressed neither approval nor disapproval.

Young Plowman from Netherlands Is Champ

PEEBLES, Ohio (UP)—A smiling, happy young farmer from The Netherlands today was the champion plowman of the world.

Willem De Lint, 27, of Zevenbergse Hock, won the 1957 world plowing championship here Friday at the close of world conservation and plowing matches.

John Mason, Derbyshire, England, was runner-up and named reserve champion. Arvo Jokinen of Renko, Finland, was third and William G. Wright of Magharafelt, Londonderry, Northern Ireland took fourth. Fifth was R. J. Miller of Somerset, England.

The Hollander outplowed champions from 12 other foreign countries and the United States to win the coveted Golden Plow Trophy.

"It was worth the trip across the ocean," De Lint said when he was presented the award by Mrs. C. William O'Neill, wife of Ohio's governor, at the Master Plowman's Banquet Friday night.

De Lint left his bride of five months to come here to compete in the fifth annual contest held in conjunction with the World Conservation Exposition.

Twenty-seven expert plowmen competed in the matches, first ever held on American soil.

They came from The Netherlands, Belgium, Norway, Denmark, Sweden, Finland, France, Italy, West Germany, Northern Ireland, Great Britain, New Zealand, Canada and the United States.

Each plowed a half acre of stubble Thursday and a half acre of sod Friday.

De Lint totaled 147.89 points of a possible 200. Mason had 136.56. It was De Lint's fourth try at the world event. He finished ninth at the 1956 contest held at Oxford, England.

De Lint, who said he plows "for fun" at home, had a bad moment during Friday's competition. He glanced at the crowd as he was completing a furrow and "cut a bit shallow."

"I tried to practice before coming to America," he said, "but I got in only one hour."

He said the "soil here is not very much like that at home. A lot of clay here.

A crowd of 247,000 turned out during the four-day exposition that covered a 2,500-acre site.

State and national plowing matches preceded the world contest.

Lawrence Goettemoeller, 46, St. Henry, Ohio, who won his second straight national level land title, placed ninth in the world matches. The other U.S. entry, John Daniels, 35, Mulberry Grove, Ill., 1956 U.S. contour champion, was 21st.

Local Pastor on Vacation Trip

Rev. Raymond Wreath, pastor at First Christian Church of Perryopolis, took a vacation trip through New England recently, accompanied by Richard Greene. He continued his trip with Jimmy Greene through Tennessee, N. C., the Skyline Drive through Virginia and the Shenadoah Valley of Virginia. Both Richard Greene and Jimmy Greene are residents of Perryopolis.

District Persons On Jury Duty

Persons scheduled for jury duty in Fayette County Civil court during October 14 to 21 from Perryopolis and vicinity are as follows:

Paul Vinsick, Whittsett; Gladys Murphy, Perry; Mrs. Ethel Eggers, Perry; Edward Bubnash, Perry; Nancy Swartz, Perry; and Theodore Welling Sr., Star Junction.

William Oldham, son of Mrs. Catherine Bonucci of Star Junction, has enlisted in the Marine Corps.

He is at Parris Island, S. C., where he will undergo twelve weeks of training.

WCTU Meeting Is Held Here; Reports Heard

The Women's Temperance Union of Perryopolis met at it's regular session in the home of Mrs. Harry Sechrist this week.

The newly elected president, Mrs. Arthur Evans, was in charge. Mrs. Luvada Blair led the devotions and a letter was read from the county president outlining the year's work.

Highlights of the convention held at the Pleasant View Presbyterian Church were presented and short readings were offered.

A book was presented by Mrs. Evans entitled, "Leaves of Gold", at the close of the program to Mrs. Blair, the retiring president who held office for the past 39 years.

The hostess served a luncheon, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Mary Allison. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Viola Hanam of Star Junction.

Michael Koskisky Honored at Party

Michael Koskisky, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Koskisky Jr. of Perryopolis, recently celebrated his eighth birthday at the home of Grandma Neth, R. D. 1, Belle Vernon.

Michael, a student at Star Junction, was honored by a wiener roast which was attended by 32 of his friends. The lad received a pony for his birthday.

SNARK TO GO INTO OPERATION — With government announcement that the first Snark squadron will be in operation by the end of the year come these photos of the missile in action during tests by Northrop aviation of Los Angeles. Top: At rest on launching pad, with missileers giving final checkup. Middle: Power and fuel lines drop away as powerful rocket boosters ignite. Lower: Snark on way to target, both boosters flaming. Squadron will include personnel of 500. The Snark is a 5,000-mile nuclear guided missile.

Missile Defense Out Of the Research Stage

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Defense Department spokesman said today work on a guided missile designed to knock down 15,000-mile-an-hour intercontinental ballistic missiles has progressed from the research to the development stage.

The spokesman said that means anti - missile "hardware" is now becoming available in "test quantities."

The disclosure followed the Air Force announcement Friday that radar has now been developed with "eyes" which can penetrate for 3,000 miles to detect an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM).

The Pentagon appears to have decided to relax slightly its tight secrecy on missile and missile-defense developments to counteract the flood of claims from Moscow about Soviet progress in the field.

The Russians claim their own tests show ballistic missiles can be fired anywhere in the world with a flight time measured in minutes.

Russian claims at first implied there was no defense against an ICBM but have lately come around to the long-standing American military view that the ICBM is not "an ultimate weapon" at all.

Americans readily concede, however, that it will be several years before a defense can be mounted.

The key element of the defense is the new radar which Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Thomas D. White said will be ready "for operational employment in the near future."

The radar would provide about 15 minutes warning time which military men believe would be enough to get off anti - missiles against aggressor targets. Therefore, it is hoped that the warning radar will deter attack.

Girl Comes Out Of Year-long Coma; Speaks

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—A 20-year old girl came out of a year-long coma Friday and spoke to her mother for the first time since she was accidentally shot by her sweetheart.

Carolyn Chetta, who was wounded Sept. 10, 1956, talked to her mother who has kept up a long bedside vigil at her daughter's bedside.

"I talked to her and she answered me," the girl's mother said. "I was so thrilled I could hardly speak."

Mrs. Chetta did not reveal Carolyn's first words but she said after she heard her daughter mumble she rushed to get the supervisor at the Catholic Charity Hospital, Sister Lorenza.

"We had often prayed together that Carolyn would get well. When Carolyn?' she said 'Okay'." Mrs. Chetta said.

Carolyn was wounded on the eve of her wedding to her policeman fiance. She and patrolman Joe Bergeron had gone to inspect an apartment they planned to occupy after the marriage.

Bergeron told offices he had been practicing drawing his unloaded police pistol for Carolyn. He loaded the gun later and while playing with it the weapon went off, striking his fiance in the head.

For months Bergeron took turns with the Chetta family at Carolyn's bedside before he became sick from the strain and worry over the shooting. An attempted murder charge against him was dismissed and he resigned from the force.

Judges

the death of Judge George McWherter.

"The only candidates endorsed by this committee are the ones linked to the faction headed by Arthur (Buddy) Turner," said Swink.

"The disrepect of judicial ethics shown by Judge Samuel Weiss, first in Allegheny County and then in Westmoreland, has apparently become contagious," Swink said. "It now has infected Judges Laird, O'Connell and Copeland."

On Wednesday of this week, Pershing and his Republican running mates for common pleas court, Willis E. Topper and Robert H. Rial, issued a joint statement in which they pledged they would refrain from engaging in partisan politics if elected to the bench. They said they would "do their best to restore respect for the county courts."

Three West Newton R. D. youths won prizes in the first annual state junior dairy show this week in Harrisburg at the Farm Show Building.

Linda Zumbro won first place in the Brown Swiss senior yearling heifers and also got a second merit award in the fitting contest.

Mary Zumbro placed second in the Brown Swiss class, while Nan Lasch placed 12th in the junior calf class.

Booby Trap Is Mailed to Co-ed; Woman Injured

MUNCIE, Ind. (UP)—Police today sought the unknown party who mailed a booby trap to a Ball State College co-ed, seriously injuring one young woman and causing shock to two others.

The mechanism was addressed to Miss Ruth Petry, 18. She and Miss Linda Helvering, 18, suffered shock while Mrs. Anita Reynolds, 21, had the ends of two fingers of her right hand blown off, her wrist broken and her arm and face peppered by shotgun pellets. All are from Anderson, Ind.

They opened the two - foot long wooden box Friday in the home economics department of the college, and the breech mechanism from a shotgun exploded a shotgun shell in the box.

Mrs. Reynolds was in "fair" condition today at Ball State Memorial Hospital.

State police picked up and questioned, but later released, John Fite Jr. of Chesterfield, Ind., whose name appeared as the return address on the box. Police said he did not know Miss Petry, and she confirmed this.

The box was found a week ago in a locker belonging to another co-ed. She brought the box to the home economics department for Miss Petry. The blast occurred when the three gathered to open it Friday.

Miss Petry had no clues to offer police.

World War I Vets To Meet Tuesday

Mon Valley Barracks 350, Veterans of World War I, will resume regular monthly meetings next Tuesday at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Assembly Room in Charleroi.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 1:30 p.m. at the Funeral Home followed by additional services at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, with Rev. Paul Trout officiating. Burial will be in Grandview Cemetery.

Catholics in Italian Town Are Up in Arms

PIETRABIANCA, Italy (UP) — Half of the 600 inhabitants of this tiny Catholic hamlet threatened today to turn Protestant unless their archbishop ends his ban on toasting the Statue of St. Joseph.

Msgr. Giovanni Ferro, archbishop of Reggio Calabria in the toe of the Italian boot, stood firmly by his ruling that toasts to the statue were "idolatrous."

The feud between the archbishop and the Calabrians began last month when Msgr. Ferro issued stringent restrictions on the annual procession with the Statue of St. Joseph. The procession was one of the few bright notes in the drab life of the shepherds of Petrabianca, a desolate village in the barren mountains of Calabria, and they used to enjoy it thoroughly.

They would carry their statue for five miles along a country road. And when they passed through the village of Pettogallico they would stop to pray, talk to the statue, and toast St. Joseph with big glasses of thick, spiced South Italian wine.

They would talk familiarly to the statue and offer it wine. They would tell it that they needed a mild winter, and rain in the spring so the pasture would be good, and could he please see that grandfather recovered from his rheumatism and the daughter got married?

All this, the monsignor ruled, was definitely idolatrous. He said it was worship of the statute itself rather than honoring the saint. So he ordered this year's procession to stop short of the village of Pettogallico where the practices took place.

The result was that on the day of the procession, villagers and police clashed when the worshippers tried to carry the statue into the forbidden villages. Fists and stones flew and 16 persons received bruises.

Today the people of Pietrabianca were fuming, and there was persistent talk of a mass switch to Protestantism in a rebellion against the archbishop.

Villagers admitted they did not know much about Protestantism in this traditionally Roman Catholic section of Italy, nor how Protestants feel about worshiping statutes.

"But we know there are a lot of Protestant pastors at work here in Calabria and they are Christian like us," one villager said. "And they don't take orders from the archbishop."

$74,062 Granted to Sharon Authority

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Commerce Secretary William R. Davlin today announced the allocation of $74,062 to the Sharon Redevelopment Authority for the reclamation of almost five acres of "blighted" residential land.

Known as the North Flats Project, Area 2, the land was twice subject to floods and is presently 53 per cent residential. It will be converted to public and commercial use by the demolition of all existing structures.

An Important Step For Monessen

MONESSEN'S City Council is scheduled at its regular meeting next Wednesday to give final approval to what we regard as one of the most constructive pieces of legislation any local council has adopted since Monessen became a third class city over 35 years ago.

We are referring to the proposed building code, a measure which will give the City government the power it needs to require property owners to maintain their buildings according to certain minimum standards.

The ordinance is too lengthy and complicated to be re-summarized in this space. The Daily Independent has previously described its provisions in detail in articles in the news columns. And the Council has been considering the proposal intermittently for over a year and a half, since it was first recommended by the Planning Commission.

The purpose of this comment is merely to say once more what we have said several times before: namely, that we earnestly hope the Council will give this ordinance final approval next Wednesday and will promptly set up the enforcement machinery needed to put it into effect.

* * *

MONESSEN has needed a modern building code for at least a generation. Like many aging communities, we have too many property owners, especially owners of rental property, who have no civic pride and no personal pride in what they own. So long as it produces dollars in what they regard as satisfactory numbers, the condition and appearance of their property means nothing to them.

This ordinance is aimed mainly at such owners. Under it, those whose property does not meet the minimum standards must either make the necessary improvements — which they are carefully specified — or the City can condemn the property.

These standards, of course, are not original with either the Planning Commission or the Council. They are largely borrowed from other cities which have had successful experience in this field and adapted to Monessen's own needs. And while they undoubtedly are high standards, they are not unreasonable by any means.

This is an important step which the Council is taking, and we commend the members for their courage. If the ordinance is properly enforced, the City will be stepping on some toes, toes which in some cases may belong to politically influential individuals.

So the City administration will need the active support of civic-minded people. If it has this support and if it uses the ordinance with real determination to make it produce maximum results, next Wednesday may be remembered as the day when Monessen put a stop once and for all to creeping blight.

Faubus Complies

ALTHOUGH he has done so in poor spirit, Governor Faubus of Arkansas has complied with the orders of the federal court and withdrawn the National Guard from the Central High School at Little Rock.

Presumably now the Negro children will be admitted to the school and Little Rock's long prepared plan of gradual integration can begin to take effect.

Much depends upon the people of Little Rock and how they deport themselves at this point. The crux of this controversy was Governor Faubus' contention that violence would occur if he allowed the Negro children to go to school. But Mayor Mann, the superintendent of schools and the newspapers of Little Rock said this was not true, that it amounted to an insult to the community. Now we shall see who was right.

The grudging speech which Governor Faubus made to announce his compliance with the court order amounted, at one point, to an invitation to his segregationist supporters to prove that he was right. Instead of warning the White Citizens Council against resorting to violence, the Governor cautioned the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People "not to be so reckless as to push (integration) . . . until a cooling off period has passed."

It seems odd to have a government executive say that it is the law-abiding, not the lawbreakers, who must be careful.

Governor Faubus says he will take an appeal from the district court decision, which is his privilege of course. But in the meantime, it is well that he has bowed to federal court and ceased his illegal use of the National Guard to nullify the law.

The country will earnestly hope that Little Rock quickly recovers its poise and proceeds in orderly fashion to do what must be done.

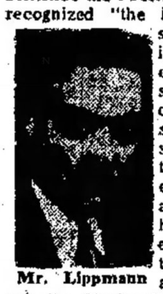
Compromise With Faubus Impossible

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Apologists for Governor Faubus have been quick to exploit an unclear sentence in the President's statement about the conference last Saturday at Newport. In the sentence the President said that he recognized "the inescapable responsibility resting upon the Governor to preserve law and order in his state." This is said to mean that the Governor has a right and a duty, if he thinks it necessary in order to preserve law and order, to use the National Guard to keep the Negro children out of the Little Rock public schools.



Mr. Lippmann

It is not possible that the President meant to say any such thing. For if he had meant to say it, he would have been giving consent to an extraordinary precedent — that if a Governor of a state says that he thinks that the enforcement of federal law will provoke disorderly protests, he may use military force not to put down the disorderly protests but to nullify federal law.

The President cannot have meant to approve armed resistance to the enforcement of the Constitution he is sworn to uphold.

Ambiguous Words

Yet the sentence is open to the construction which the Governor's apologists have put upon it. The sentence is obviously an echo of the Governor's own attempts to justify his action. The sentence would never have been in the statement at all had not the President, who in principle had gotten the Governor to back down, wished to give Mr. Faubus a little consolation and something to save his face. What he gave him were some words which befog the issue.

Unfortunately, the Governor has precipitated an issue which does not lend itself to compromise. The issue, let us remember, is not where and when, how fast and how much, the white public schools shall be opened to Negro children. Integration is bound to be a long and slow process, and no good can come of impatient, uncompromising attempts to force the pace. But the issue forced by Governor Faubus is whether a community like Little Rock, which had consented to a very moderate degree of integration, may be over-ruled by the Governor and prevented from observing the law.

The issue, in short, is whether a governor may use the National Guard to enforce segregation. This is not an issue that can be compromised. Either he can or he cannot. If he can, the hope of proceeding slowly and by consent, as in fact was happening in Arkansas, is extinguished, and the sinister question of armed resistance to the Constitution is posed.

Faubus Can't Win

This being the issue, the Governor has gotten himself into a crack. If he bows to federal authority, he must reverse his order to the Arkansas National Guard, and he must recognize his responsibility to enforce the law, not to nullify it. Then, he will, no doubt, be a gone goose with the irreconcilable segregationists.

If, on the other hand, he does not bow to federal authority, he will have to be made to bow to it. The President could not, no matter how lenient he wished to be, let Governor Faubus win the argument. For the precedent established would be disastrous.

The best solution, even for Governor Faubus himself, will be a clear and conclusive decision arrived at by due process of law on the question of whether the National Guard may be used, as in Little Rock, to nullify the law. It will be best for Governor Faubus — not that this is the most important consideration — because since he must bow to some authority, it will be easiest for him to bow to the court.

More importantly, it will be best for the South. For it will reopen the road towards accommodation which was opened in the Senate this summer. This is the only way the South and the rest of the nation can hope to live with the problem.

It's a Fact—

James Clark Ross is credited with the discovery of the north magnetic pole in 1831.

It is the custom for the President to take the oath of office in Washington, but there is no provision of law to that effect.

Return Visit to Salonika

By DREW PEARSON

Editor's note: Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter written from the Balkans to his grandson, Drew Arnold.)

Salonika, Greece
Sept. 13, 1957

Dear Drew:

You wrote me that you would like to learn more about this part of the world. I am now in a city which I visited many years ago at the end of World War I when I started out as a young man to try, as I thought, to carry out some of President Woodrow Wilson's ideals about a war to end war.

This city, called Salonika, was then a great war base. It was the seaport at which the Allies mobilized a great army which finally advanced north into Serbia and broke the back of the Kaiser's army.

And all about you in this city when I arrived you saw the effect of war. There were British troops and French troops; Indian Sikhs with high turbans and long beards; Indo - Chinese troops wearing straw hats; Italian troops with high green hats; and while Russian troops stranded in Salonika by the Bolshevik revolution.

Outside the city I used to ride for one hour through the Allied war dumps looking for supplies which might help rebuild Serbia. For miles along the seacoast were spread out the weapons, the tools of war — railroad ties, railroad tracks, drums of gasoline, mountains of drums, steel cable, locomotives rusting in the sun, railroad cars, artillery carriages — the weapons of war that had taken months to accumulate and cost millions of dollars. Now they were wasting, rotting — the usual aftermath of war.

There were even two threshing machines which I persuaded the British to give me and I took north to thresh the first Serbian harvest after the armistice. That was what this part of Greece was like 38 years ago. You cannot realize what a war does to a countryside until you see a city like Salonika. And I hope you never will.

The Change From War

This week I came back. I found a new city. The houses had been rebuilt. The streetcar tracks had been pulled up — replaced by buses. The Turkish cobblestones had been smoothed out. The two American destroyers that were tied up to the docks as late as six years ago generating electricity for the town, were gone — replaced by a modern electric light plant.

And out along the bay where the Allied supply dumps once stretched mile after mile, I rode along miles and miles of little farms, patches of corn, cotton and tobacco.

Up the Vardar River just outside Salonika I visited a dam being built by the Greek Government with American aid, under the direction of an American engineer, Forrest Varney of Sacramento. For hundreds of years the Vardar has rushed down to the sea and no one ever bothered to harness its strength or use its water for irrigation.

I have seen bombed bridges and decrepit locomotives lying in the Vardar, blasted there by the Germans and the Bulgars. Nobody ever bothered to remove them as the water rushed over them. And one night when it was cold and the wind was howling down the mountain pass and our locomotive hauling a Jugoslav train ran short of steam, I carried water in petrol tins from the Vardar to fill the boiler of the "Amerakanka" — which means "American lady" — the name given by the Serbs because the locomotive was made in Philadelphia.

Well, the unruly Vardar will be harnessed now, and its waters will spill out peacefully over the pains of Macedonia to help feed the Greek people.

Modern Fair in Macedonia

In Salonika I watched the American Ambassador and the Prime Minister open the trade fair. It was like the Gaithersburg fair I take you to in Maryland, and I was sorry we missed it this year. Only this fair doesn't have the sideshows and rodeo, and the horses which compete with each other to see which can pull the heaviest loads. This fair featured farm machinery from America and many other countries, together with modern, up-to-date exhibits unheard of in the war-torn old Turkish city I used to know.

They even sold Greek hot dogs and hamburgers — little different from ours, but still pretty good.

One American exhibit, supplied by the American Farm School, showed how to hatch chickens, showed the chicks coming out of the shell while you stood there, showed different sized chickens growing and a machine to pluck their feathers after they were grown, and finally a barbecue pit to cook them.

The Greeks were fascinated.

Well that's how things have changed since I was here as a boy. And that's how any part of the world can change when it's given a chance for peace.

The trouble with southern Europe in the old days was war — constant, never-ending war. When I was here, the Greeks and Serbs had barely got over the war of 1912 against Turkey when they had the war of 1913 against Bulgaria, then the World War of 1914, then the war of 1922 between Greece and Turkey, then World War II in 1939.

Actually wars began when Philip of Macedonia went down to dominate Athens and his son, Alexander the Great, marched East to conquer the Persians; and later when the Turks marched up the Vardar to the gates of Vienna in the 14th century.

We have been lucky in America, because for almost a hundred years we have not been desolated by war. I hope we can remain that way. I hope our influence with Europe will keep it that way. I confess that I have sometimes been discouraged since those days when I went off to try to help promote the ideals of Woodrow Wilson. However, I hope you will never get discouraged, and that, when you grow up, you will always keep working to prevent war.

Your Grandfather

Notes and Comment—

Little Rock Editor Is Calm Voice in Crisis

By HARRY R. PORE Jr.

It's more or less instinctive with me, when some matter of critical importance is in the news, to want to know how the local press is handling the situation, whether it's doing a job in what it considers to be the public interest.

For the most part, it's a pleasure to say, I am seldom disappointed. I doubt if there has been a time in American history when so many of the country's newspapers have been in the hands of men of conviction and courage.

If you think it's easy to take what you think is the right side in a heated controversy, try putting yourself in the position of Harry Scott Ashmore, the 41-year-old executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette at Little Rock.

Mr. Ashmore happens to believe that the public schools should be open to Negro children as well as to white children. But many of his readers and very likely many of his advertisers violently disagree. Undoubtedly many are also active members of the Ku Klux Klan and the White Citizens Councils.

So the Governor of Arkansas stations the National Guard in front of the high school and keeps out some Negro pupils, thus precipitating a constitutional crisis. And Mr. Ashmore has to decide whether The Gazette is going to stand for its convictions, whether it is going to condone the Governor's conduct or whether it is going to temporize and see how the winds of public opinion are blowing.

Paper Takes Stand

It is one of the few bright features of the Little Rock incident that Harry Ashmore and The Arkansas Gazette came out immediately and forthrightly against the Governor and on the side of the Constitution. Without waiting to see what the outcome might be, The Gazette began to advocate that the troops be withdrawn and that the Negro children be admitted to the school without demonstration.

I have never been in Little Rock and what I know of the atmosphere there during this crisis has come entirely from my reading of news dispatches about it. But I have no trouble imagining that the atomosphere has been tense and that the editorial views of the Arkansas Gazette have stirred considerable bile. It is reported that the White Citizens Councils are, calling Harry Ashmore a "radical" and a "Communist" and the Gazette, "The Arkansas Daily Worker".

But I suspect that the more thoughtful segregationists (and no doubt some are both thoughtful and sincere) respect this editor and his paper, acknowledge that he speaks from deep conviction and will one day come to honor them both.

It is people like Mr. Ashmore, I think, who hold the best hope for a peaceful acceptance by the South of the national point of view with respect to race problems. Even during the emotional heat generated by incidents like that at Little Rock, one hears their voices — calm, sober and mature — talking sense while the storm beats around them. And when the dust settles and the haters and rabble-rousers have become properly silent, these are the people who will show the South the way forward.

South Wastes Time

Sometime before the Little Rock episode developed, Harry Ashmore expressed the opinion that the South is wasting too much of its energies on the segregation question. The people and their leaders, he said, might better be thinking of more constructive matters, and he mentioned industrial development.

"All my life," said Harry Ashmore, "Southern leadership has argued over where a man should sit on a street car. I feel it's more important to think of our place in the atomic age."

Most of us who have the job of making newspapers try to avoid any exaggerated sense of personal importance. It is the job we do, and not we who do it, that is important.

But for the good of the country I hope there is a sizeable sprinkling of Harry Ashmores throughout the nation's newspaper offices. And if you'll pardon a little professional pride, I rather think there is.

In The Open—

Birds, Flowers Stars Of Fall's Landscape

By JOHN H. DAY

There were four grebes cruising about in the shallows across the dam. The light was poor and I would never have seen this quartet of divers had not the binoculars picked them out. They hadn't missed seeing me though, and they sat out there nervously eyeing every move I made. There was an algae scum over most of the surface. They blended so well into this murky background that if I took my eyes off them for a moment they disappeared and it took real concentration to find them again.

I had disturbed a dozen or so pond ducks as I came blundering through the thicket. They had been feeding along the shoreline minding their own business. As they went aloft I noted three black ducks in the crowd. The rest were mallards. They were not so noisy as usual. After a circling flight high overhead they skidded down to a splash landing far up in the center of the wide reservoir.

The grebes just sat out there and watched me warily. As the light improved I could see clearly the black band across the bill. These fellows are known as pied-billed grebes and are quite common on all the dams and waterways in the countryside. Fishermen and hunters contemptuous of their inedible flesh call them "mud hens".

Cedar Waxwings

I had been hoping to find some migratory shore birds on the mud flats at the head of the dam, but there was not even a killdeer in sight. Some birds flying down to the water's edge and almost at once hurrying back to perches in a willow tree turned out to be cedar waxwings. Six of them sat there in a colorful tableau worthy of the talents of a Japanese silk screen artist.

I heard the snap of a fly-catcher's bill as he slaughtered a hapless bug. Then I saw the wood pewee fly up from a sortie low over the water and take a stand on a dead branch about four feet above the surface. He was actively hunting dinner. When the right tid-bit came buzzing by he would take off, the lethal bill would give an audible snap, and back he'd come to the dead branch, his tail going like a pump handle.

The whole surface of the quiet shallow water was fairly jumping with small water striders. There must have been a dozen of these active little fellows to every square foot of water. Flying low over the surface were a multitude of small damsel flies with short metallic blue bodies. There was an occasional swirl as a feeding blue-gill sunfish came up from the depths. A lone kingfisher flew across the dam and rattled his odd music box.

Spider Entertains

A big shamrock spider entertained me as she engineered her orb web between a tall goldenrod and an aster plant. The markings on the back of her paunchy abdomen look exactly like the grinning face of a small monkey. She would tie a strand to the goldenrod, slide down to the aster, then turn and start back up and that monkey-face would grin at me in a comical performance that made me laugh aloud there in the secluded thicket.

Despite the drouth the wild crabapple crop, as always is of bumper proportions, although the fruits are somewhat smaller than usual. Nobody much eats these bitter apples, although in late winter the squirrels will sometimes chip them open for the seeds. A blue jay sat in the trees on the hillside and jeered at me as I moseyed back along the trail toward my car.

The fall asters have already opened their wayside flower show. One of my favorites is the calico aster with the tiny flowers. The showy New England aster was much in evidence. The white wood aster and the purple one with the heart-shaped leaves added their color to the woodland edgings. Another which I noted is called Lowry's aster. It also has purple flowers and its leaves have a sort of greasy feel when rubbed between the fingers.

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. — Pierre Tallerie, manager of jazz trumpeter Louis Armstrong, on why he thinks Armstrong will reconsider his decision not to tour Russia because of government handling of the segregation issue:

"Louie isn't mad at anybody. He couldn't stay mad for more than a few seconds anyway."

AMMAN, Jordan — The Jordani government, in a note to Syria on the danger of Communism to the Middle East:

"International Communism does not differentiate between Arab and Israeli Communists, and its philosophy is based on the destruction of a nation's religion and creed."

Mary J. Senn Weds Philip D. Harvey

Mary Jeannette Senn and Philip D. Harvey exchanged nuptial vows ● a double ring ceremony solemnized in the Primitive Baptist Church of Columbus, Ga., Tuesday, Sept. 10, at 2 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Carter of Columbus, Ga., and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Charles Harvey of 8 Luce Ave., Monessen.

For her wedding the bride chose a white taffeta dress trimmed with seed pearls. She wore a small white velvet hat with a brief veil and her corsage was a white orchid.

The bride had chosen her close friend, Virginia Smith, also of Columbus, to be her maid of honor and only attendant.

Best man was Jess Johnson of Columbus, a friend of the bridegroom.

Church Decorated

The Rev. M. Williams, pastor of the church, officiated. The church was decorated with palms and white chrysanthemums for the occasion.

The mother of the bride selected a navy blue ensemble with pink accessories and a pink carnation corsage. The groom's mother wore pink with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

After the wedding a reception was held in the church parlors. Decorations were fall flowers, and the bridal table was centered with a tiered wedding cake.

The couple is now residing in a newly purchased trailer at Huie's Tailor Court, Mellon St., Columbia.

Prayer Theme In Devotions For Fellowship

A devotional program highlighted the Tuesday evening meeting of the Esther group of the Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian Church. It was held at the home of Mrs. Ruth Richwine Aliquippa Ave.

Taking part in the devotions were Nancy Bow, Ilona Vasil, Kathy Kiseda ,and Diane Richwine The program these was "Brotherhood of Prayer. "Each of the girls dressed to represent a person from Mexico, China, Japan and the United States. They demonstrated and explained the ways of worship in the different countries. The girls then led the group in the Lord's Prayer and closed the devotions with singing.

Routine reports were given by Mrs. Leona Kunka during the business session. Get well and baby congratulatory cards were signed and sent to several members.

Mrs. Ferne Purks then presented the study program using the theme "The Church Speaks."

After benediction there was a social hour and luncheon was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Cousins Now at Home in Verona

Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Roland Cousins are residing in their home in Rosedale Heights, Verona, after their southern motor trip. Mrs. Cousins is the former Harriet June Greenwood, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Fred Greenwood of Rostraver Township Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cousins of Mercer.

The couple exchanged nuptial vows in the Belle Vernon Church of the Nazarene on Saturday, Aug. 31, at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Rev. Wayne Parks of Pittsburgh heard the vows before an altar decorated with ferns, palms and tall lighted tapers.

The nuptial music was played by Mrs. Mary Louise Smith of Bellevue. Ronald Gray of Belle Vernon was soloist. His selections were "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace accented with medalions and fashioned with long pointed sleeves and a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of tulle fell from a small hat of sequins and pearls, and she carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Mrs. Charles Greenwood, sister-in-law of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a yellow ensemble. Bridesmaids were Ethel Greenwood, sister of the bride and Ruth Evans. Both wore green gowns. All three wore picture hats to match their gowns and carried baskets of white roses and fleur d' amour with nosegay arrangements of carnations tinted to match their gowns

Mary Arlene Greenwood, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Charles Greenwood, brother of the bride, was best man. Ushers were the Rev. Wayne Acton of Stockdale and John Bricker of Pittsburgh.

The mother of the bride selected a dress of poudre blue, and the mother of the bridegroom wore light blue. They wore matching accessories and pink rosebud corsages.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Ida Bell Wineland of Bentleyville, wore a dark print dress and her corsage was of white rosebuds

A reception in the Priecedale Union Church hall followed the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Rostraver High School with the class of 1947. She is employed at the Irwin Works, Clairton. Her husband is a graduate of Grove City College and attended the University of Pittsburgh. He is employed by Gulf Corp. in Verona.

SCALE WATCHING IS AN EXCELLENT HABIT
Prescription Pharmacists

A scale in every home might be very beneficial to personal health, for weight is an excellent guide to future well-being —and should be watched carefully.

There is no short-cut to weight control. With each person, it is an individual problem, and subject to personal discipline.

Normal living and eating are likely the keys to health. If over-weight or under-weight, see your Doctor. He is the one qualified to determine the necessity and prescribe for such treatment.

Only with his guidance should you engage in any weight control project..

Groat, Thomas Regular Guys

When compiling a list of celebrities who act down to earth around us "little guys" you have to rank Dick Groat and Frank Thomas of the Pirates at the top of the list . . . They proved that here Thursday night when they mingled with the crowd at the PONY banquet, signed "umpteen" autographs without flinching and generally being nice to everyone . . . Wonderful public relations men for the Pirates . . . And what a kick they got out of talking with Tom Preston, affable master of ceremonies, who kept a lengthy program moving along so smoothly and quickly with his "two minutes only" warning that no one noticed the length.

* * *

Athletic Departments of both Clemson College and North Carolina U. are on The Daily Independent's subscription list . . . Imagine the Milwaukee Braves drawing 8,009,952 fans in just four years an average of about 2,000,000 per. Compare that with the last season the Braves were at Boston and drew 281,000 . . . Pittsburgh, during that four-year spread played to 2,467,526 . . . Yankees couldn't even approach the Milwaukee figure, drawing 5,994,904 in four years . . . The Buccos' total is fantastic considering the kind of teams fielded in Pittsburgh while Milwaukee fans have had pennant contenders to root for ever since acquiring the beantown franchise.

VFW Thanks Trophy Donors

The local VFW Post is very appreciative of the cooperation of the award doners for the recent annual banquet for marble champs and Little Leaguers and wish to extend thanks to the Monessen Sport Shop for the baseball trophy and T-shirts given the marble champions, and this newspaper for the city marble championship trophy . . . The Vets supply the school winner trophies for the marble events . . . Coach Al DeLuca of St. Vincent College has a halfback going great guns for him the Bearcat eleven named Paul Bradley. In fact he's the Bearcats' leading ground-gainer — he never played high school football!

Wayne Cipriani, ex-Hound quarterback, has again been tabbed as an outstanding candidate for the Lafayette College team. This marks the second or third time he's been mentioned in publicity releases since he went back to school, so big things must be expected from him . . . Isn't it ironic that all during the hot months when everyone was crying for rain there was none and now that fall is ready to make its debut with a rash of football games, the rains come . . . and come . . . and come . . . Which reminds us that years from now you won't have to worry about the weather when planning on attending sports contests for all stadiums will be provided with portable roofs according to all men of authority in the various sports.

Odd Situation for McCurdy

As of this writing it wasn't certain whether the Monongahela game would be played Friday but regardless of whether it was or wasn't we can't help but wonder what sort of feeling Harry 'Yi' McCurdy, assistant coach here, had (or will have) when his son takes the field for Monongahela, playing against "Pop's" team . . . Can you picture, for instance, trying to set up a defense against your own son so he won't be able to move the ball? . . . Despite the fact that a midget gridder suffered a broken bone here the other day, the local program has a wonderful major injury record. It is such a good record that not a single boy was injured in a regulation game in the league's history.

Monessen Junior High Squad Awaits Opener

Coach Al Romasco of the Monessen Junior High eleven and his assistant Joe Gladys are anxiously looking forward to the 1957 season opener at Brownsville Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Junior High mentors claim they are "anticipating the first game to test a spirited squad."

Approximately 60 boys reported the first day of practice two weeks ago but since then the weeding out process has it down to 45 candidates.

All positions are open even at this late date as the smaller boys hustle for their positions.

Progress has been slow but satisfactory according to the coaches.

Drills are held every day after school at Ninth Street Park from 4 o'clock until 7 o'clock in the evening.

Fundamentals of blocking and tackling have been the order of the day in the drill sessions.

Impressing the mentors most has been the passing of the quarterbacks Anthony Romasco, Lee Laszewski, Benny Jones and Harry Vernet and pass-catching of ends Ted Darby, Tom Felgas, Bill Malinchak, Abe Grueser, George Katsuleris, and Anthony Caputo.

In addition to the quarterbacks and ends the other candidates for the '57 squad are:

FULLBACKS: Kenny DiaGiacomo, John Fedarko, Dave Bergsted.

HALFBACKS: Damon Reed; Eddie Fiorill, Leonard Williams, John Kizzie, Stephen Bewszka, Ermand DiBortolomeo, Danny Lubrani.

GUARDS: Walter Rozycki, Ronald Grogan, Leslie Pettko, Andy Dzurinko, John Minniti, Robert Hornack.

CENTERS: Dave Mallino, Joe Yadrick, Jerry Behanna.

New Record In St. Leonard's Loop

Elizabeth Hricko rolled a new three-game high of 443 as St. Theresa and St. Elizabeth posted wins in the St. Leonard's Ladies Bowling League last night with a 3-0 and 2-1 victory respectively.

The victories tied the winners for first place.

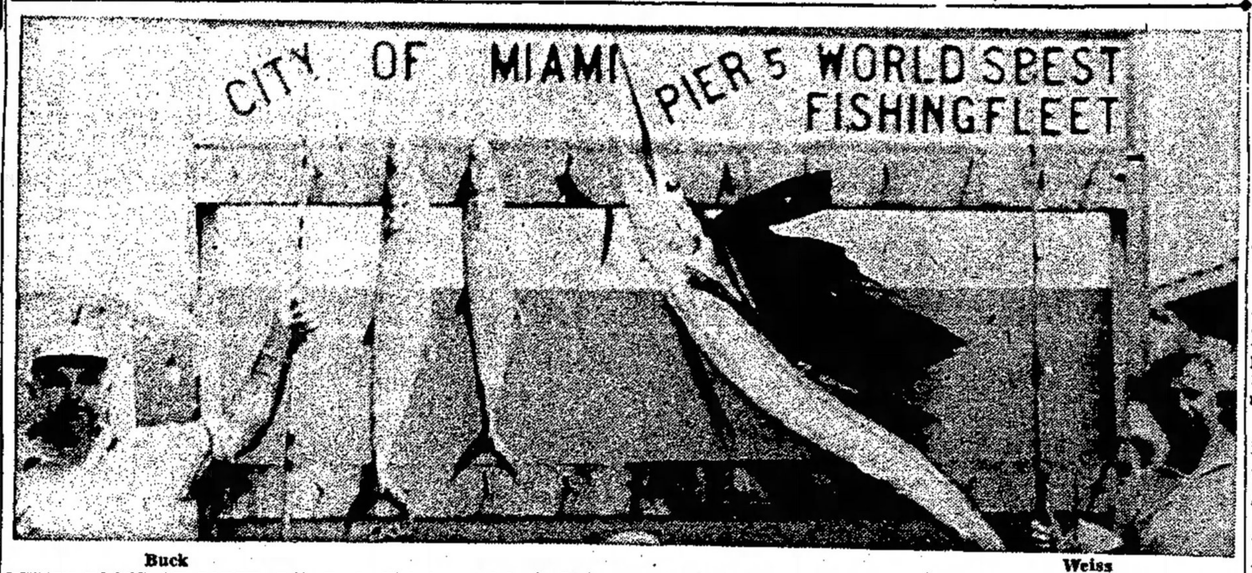
Other top scorers were Mary Carrotto, Helen Bender, Vilma Gagatko, Jean Felming, Mary Mazur, Mary Baker and Peggy George.

North Belle Vernon MV Duckpin Winners

Mon Valley Duckpin League action last night found the North Belle Vernon team blanking Brownsville, 3-0, at the North Belle Vernon alleys.

W. Titler rolled the single game high of 200 and the three-game total of 546 for Belle Vernon while M. Renkey and A. Franceschi came close to the three-game 500 mark with a 491 and a 494, while R. Wilson's 209 and 513 was the top Brownsville effort.

Monessen, Monongahela Try Again



Buck — Weiss

HERE'S PROOF OF CATCH—John Buck, Webster, and Irwin Weiss, Donora, have proof that they were members of a party which hooked a seven foot sailfish recently off the coast of Miami, Fla. The big catch weighed 75 pounds. It was hauled in during a ten-day fishing excursion by the district men.

Rain Postpones Last Night's Tilt; Kickoff at 8:30 p.m.

Rains which came after months of waiting made an unwelcome appearance yesterday for Monongahela and Monessen football fans as the unpredictable showers postponed the Wildcat - Greyhound football game set for last night until tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

Many other games in the valley including the Charleroi-Allegheny tilt were postponed, the Cougars game until Monday night.

The "wet" situation brought little change in the plans of coach Armand Niccolai of the 'Hounds or Al Cree of Monongahela. "Nick" will still go with a starting lineup of Paul Tobacco and Dennis O'Toole at ends, Ed Allen and Vince Pascarella at tackles, Bob Pauline and Terry Throop at guards, Tom Churan at center up front with Dan Barton at quarterback, Ken Bronson and Joe Karbowsky, who showed so well against Windber, at halves and Carl Rattay, a "five-yards per try" guy at Windber at fullback. That's the offensive lineup. It will be shaken up considerably defensively.

'Hounds Miss 'Bobo'

Niccolai will miss Jim ("obo) Aldrich, regular tackle, who is under observation at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital for a side injury and will be replaced by 260-pound Allen who may be handicapped due to just recovering from a siege of the flu.

Al Cree of Monongahela will call upon Ken Miller and Larry Pritchard at ends, Jerry Foytik and Larry Putnak at tackles, Ron Saunders and Larry Matus at guards with Jim Voelker at center. Jimmy Robertsoon will be at quarterback, Bob Johnson and Mike McCurdy at halves and Milton Diaz at fullback. McCurdy is the son of Monessen assistant coach Harry (Yi) McCurdy.

Monongahela, on the way back after lean seasons, is a heavy team averagine near the 200 mark.

A "full house" is expected at Monongahela's field for tonight's contest, which gets under way a half hour later than originally carded.

Perry Ahead, 13-0

Ron Stover and Chaunsey Chambers scored touchdowns for Perryopolis last night in a 13-0 Victory over Ellsworth at Perry before 2,500 fans to sound warning Perryopolis is to be reckoned with in B circles this season. Chambers also added the extra point.

Monessen Jayvees Open Monday Night

Monessen's Junior Varsity squad opens its season Monday night at 8:30 o'clock at the Stadium here with the locals hosting McKeesport's "B" team.

Ambridge Extends Streak to 11 in Two Seasons

By UNITED PRESS

Ambridge defeated New Castle, 14-0, in a top Class AA game Friday night and extended its winning streak in WPIAL football to 11 games over two seasons.

Playing at home before 7,000 fans, the Bridgers marched 63 yards following the opening kickoff for their first touchdown. Joe Kronkonko made the score from one yard out on an end run and Enrico Antonini converted.

The second Ambridge score came in the second period after the Bridgers recovered a fumble. Bill Bell scored on the first play on a quick opener and Antonini again converted.

The contest was the first in the new Midwestern Conference.

In other Class AA games, Sharon defeated Beaver Falls, 13-6; Butler beat Ellwood City, 33-6; Greensburg came from behind to edge Donora, 13-12, and Uniontown trounced Trinity, 35-6.

Washington trounced Connellsville 39-6, with Ronald Kimbrough romping for three touchdowns before 5,000 fans at Washington, and Hempfield routed Har-Brack, 38-12, before 6,200 at Trackenridge with a second-half rally. Hempfield is competing in Class AA for only the second year.

The Monessen at Monongahela game was postponed because of rain and rescheduled for tonight.

Seven teams were eliminated from the WPIAL title race in the first week end of heavy play, increasing the number of eliminated to nine.

In Class A games, Quaker Valley, West Deer, Rochester, Freeport and Burgettstown found themselves out of the race for the title.

Beaver edged Quaker Valley, 7-6; Monaca got by Rochester by the same score; Tarentum defeated Freeport, 25-20; Waynesburg trounced Burgettstown, 31-0, and Arnold tripped West Deer, 13-6.

In Class B play, Evans City defeated Bessemer, 13-6, Mapletown edged Jefferson, 19-18, and Shannock Valley got by Washington Twp., 20-7.

William Seward, secretary of state under President Johnson, bought Alaska for $7,200,000. Opponents called it "Seward's Folly."

Rangers Fill Roster

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UP)—The New York Rangers signed Hank Ciesla, Gerry Foley, Guy Gendron, Jack Evans and Larry Cahan Friday, completing their roster for the 1957-58 National Hockey League season. In an intra-squad game, Camille Henry scored twice to lead the "Blues" to a 2-2 tie with the "Whites."

West Newton Defeats Rostraver High, 13-0

Sophomore Reggie Dixon and the only senior on West Newton's School's first team, Otto Leone accounted for a touchdown each in leading the Hornets to a 13-0 win over Rostraver before approximately 1,000 rain-spattered fans at Rostraver Stadium last night.

The scores came in the first and third periods of a hard-fought game which saw the Leopards lose the ball repeatedly on fumbles when in sight of the West Newton goal.

85-Yard Quick Opener

Dixon scampered 85 yards on a quick opener late in the first quarter for the first Hornet score and Allen Specht, classy halfback plunged for the extra point.

In the third period Leone, Hornet quarterback sneaked over from the one following a sustained drive of 50 yards. Specht's plunge for the point was short.

Late in the fourth period West Newton threatened again but the Leps stiffened and held on their own 17.

Gus Allen and David Burkes, halfbacks for Wade Bender's Green and White eleven sparked a Rostraver drive in the first quarter which carried to the Hornet 15 only to lose the ball on a fumble. After Lloyd Mauk's recovery came Dixon's electrifying run.

Fullback Clyde Kuhn joined Allen and Burkes in another Lep drive in the second quarter but again a fumble on the West Newton 37 snuffed out the threat.

Another Drive Stopped

Still another Rostraver drive in the second quarter died on the Hornet 32 when the Black and Gold held on downs.

Despite the intensity of the game only one player was injured, West Newton end Jim DeNoble who was removed from the field on a stretcher but more as a precautionary measure for an injured leg rather than the seriousness of the injury. An examination today will determine the extent of the injury.

A total of 105 yards in penalties was meted out by the officials 60 against Rostraver, 45 against West Newton.

At testing to the excellence of the lighting system at the new Rostraver stadium was the fact that the entire game was played with two complete sets of lights burned out due to a short circuit. Only a partial shadow in the vicinity of the blacked out spotlights gave evidence of the light failure.

First downs favored West Newton 10-7 although Rostraver enjoyed a first half edge in that department, 5-4.

RHS Officials to Probe 'Incident'

Rostraver school officials promised today to look into reports that "five or six" footall players were required to walk from the junior high to the high school following last night's loss to West Newton.

Athetic Director Jim Weir said he had "no comment" at this time, but said he will probe into the matter.

The Rostraver team dresses at the high school, then rides a bus about five miles to the stadium located near the junior high.

Reportedly the players were picked up by motorists after they had walked about a mile.

Weir refused to confirm reports that the boys were being "disciplined."

Both Monessen MV Entries Win

Monessen's two entries in the Mon Valley Bowling League split last night with the Villa Nova's winning over Uniontown, 2-1 and the Myfords dropping a 2-1 decision to Bentleyville.

Top scorers for the winning local team were Charles Vlasic with a 209 and a 583 and Art Palm with a 203 and 532 while George Zentkovich had a 175 and 472 for Uniontown.

Bernie Single's 234 and 599 were tops for the losing Monessen team while Bill Adams rolled a 199 and a 587 for Bentleyville's top score.

The Villa Nova standing is 7-2 and the Myford's 4-5.

Greensburg Nips Donora by 13-12 In 'Thriller'

Donora High School's Dragons, the only Big 5 team seeing action last night, dropped a heart-breaking 13-12 decision to Greensburg, the second loss suffered by the Donorans in two starts this season.

Tom Urbanik, highly-touted Donora fullback, almost pulled the game out of the fire for the Dragons when he ran to the Greensburg five-yard line where he was forced out of bounds on the last play of the game.

Greensburg scored first in the initial stanza when Wayne Rugh scored from eight yards out after a 75-yard drive following the opening kickoff. The Dragons came back to tally when sub halfback Tom Watson intercepted a pass on the Greensburg 37 and went all the way.

Donora went ahead near the end of the first half as Dave Russell tossed to Angelo Dabiero for 19 yards. The scoring play was set up by Bing Alcott's fumble recovery at midfield.

Dan Myers, the top GHS ball carrier last night, scored the winning touchdown in the third period when he hit right guard from three yards out.

The winners had a 14-5 first down advantage.

The Dragons open Big Five play next Friday at home against Charleroi in a traditional rivalry.

Score by Periods

Donora	0	12	0	0	—12
Greensburg	7	0	6	0	—13

Touchdowns: Donora — Watson, Dabiero; Greensburg — Rugh, Myers. Extra Points: Greensburg — Jackson (placement).

Future MHS Foes Win

Two future Monessen High foes rolled to easy victories last night as Uniontown romped over Trinity 35-6 before 4,000 fans at Uniontown, and Hempfield Township surprised with a convincing 38-12 victory over Har-Brack. Hemfield, competing in Class AA for only the second year has won two in a row.

California Wins

California knocked off Bethlehem Joint, 21-0, before 3,000 fans last night.

Frank Schip scored twice, going nine off tackle for one of them and ten on an end sweep for the other. Ken Kulak sneaked one yard for the other Trojan score.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Low Down Backswing

You'll hear it from everyone: "Slow down your backswing!" This advice might be a nuisance to you by now, but the advice is sound, nevertheless. The backswing must be slow in the sense that it must be unhurried and smooth. But beware! It can easily be too slow.

Recently, it was found that, among the best golfers, the speed of the backswing was about one-third of the downswing. This proportion was applicable even on the short shots when the downswing was deliberately slow.

I tested the theory myself, and I'm sold on it. It's just right. This one-third speed is fast enough for you to retain the control and feel of the clubhead, but slow enough to keep you properly balanced at the top of the swing.

Archie Moore Kayoes Tony Anthony in 7th

By UNITED PRESS

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Like Ol' Man River, Archie Moore, aged 40—something, just keeps rollin' along.

In fact, he was talking about a "comeback" in the heavyweight division today after giving the audacious young challenger, Tony Anthony, a terrible shellacking Friday night and finally scoring a technical knockout in the 7th round.

"But that was one of my better fights last night," he said. "I'm in real fine condition. Maybe before I try the heavyweights we might give that young fellow from Canada, Yvon Durelle, a shot at my title. After all, he fought a draw with Anthony and deserves it."

Crowd Of 7,500

Archie was hardly puffing after he completed his chore against the 22-year-old Anthony before a slim house of about 7,500, who paid $60.000.

However, millions more watched the bout on television.

It was a fairly close battle for five rounds while Moore set up a "previously devised" plan of battle. Then the roof caved in. That came in the sixth round. The pace apparently had started to slow up when the fury of Archie's potent fists broke loose.

He battered the bewildered young foe around the ring from one side to the other. But the superbly - conditioned challenger wouldn't go down.

Late in the stanza, Archie stepped back waiting for Tony to fall. But when Anthony stood up, Archie reached out with a light tap to the chin and the boy toppled backwards. He was saved by the bell after the count reached five.

The seventh was the beginning of the end. Archie Moore, with the spring of youth in his legs, and the attitude of an angry bull, tore after his weakened foe. He finally knocked him to the canvas with a flurry of blows.

Referee Mushy Callahan then stepped in to mercifully stop the slaughter at 2.49 of the round.

NY Commission To Investigate 'Sugar' Bribe

NEW YORK (UP) — The New York State Athletic Commission will investigate Sugar Ray Robinson's bribery - offer charges at a public hearing; but not before Robinson defends his middleweight crown against Carmen Basilio at Yankee Stadium, Monday night.

Chairman Julius Helfand announced that a commission meeting on Monday morning will set the date for the hearing, at which "Robinson will be called as a witness to testify under oath."

At a press conference Friday, 37-year-old Robinson said he could have become a very rich man if he were dishonest.

He said, "I've been offered hundreds of thousands of dollars by hoodlums to throw fights when I was favored at 4-1, 5-1 and 6-1. But you know I was always too honest and too egotistical to lose."

Why hadn't he reported those offers to the boxing commission, as the law requires?

He said he didn't because it might have involved a man "who is now very prominent in boxing," and because he didn't want to "create a spectacle," and because "I'm not looking for trouble."

Pirates Sign Four

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The Pirates have signed four more pitchers to minor league contracts for 1958. They are Jimmy Elmore, Hodgensville, Ky., a left hander, to Grand Forks, S.D.; Merle Lee Masters, Ashley, Ohio, and Joseph Holcombe, Blockville S.C., both right handers, to Clinton, Iowa, and Frank Russo, Linden, N.J., a right hander, to Beaumont, Tex.

Muddy Turf Break for Panthers

By UNITED PRESS

Baseball notwithstanding, college football barges in on the national sports scene today with a number of interesting intersectional games on tap, headed by the Oklahoma-Pittsburgh get together at Pitt Stadium.

Texas A&M, Duke and Navy, all with bowl berths on their mind even this early in the season, also are slated for opening action today.

Oklahoma, paced by 1956 scoring champion Clendon Thomas and a fleet of speedy backs, is picked by eight points to make Pittsburgh its 41st straight victim. However, coach Bud Wilkinson isn't taking the game lightly, because of Pitt's powerhouse line and the prospect of a muddy field. Pitt, incidentally, was the last team Oklahoma played that it didn't beat. The Panthers, springing a major upset, held the Sooners to a 7-7 tie in 1953.

Terps-Aggies On TV

The NCAA's first nationally-televised game (NBC, beginning at 4:45 p.m. e.d.t.) pits an improving Maryland team against Texas A&M. The Aggies, favored to wrap up the Southwest Conference championship this year and the Cotton Bowl berth that goes with it, are picked by 14 points over the Terrapins, who are expected to improve on their 2-7-1 1956 showing, the worst for a Maryland team in many years.

Duke, boasting a solid team built around fullback Hal McElhaney, meets South Carolina, its chief rival for an Orange Bowl berth in the Atlantic Coast Conference, and is favored by eight points. The Blue Devils and Gamecocks are generally regarded as the teams to beat in the ACC.

Navy, which can get the other Cotton Bowl berth by going through a respectable season, opens against Boston College. Because of depth and its heaviest line ever, Navy is picked by 13 points. The game will be the first played in BC's new stadium.

Today's other leading games feature teams from every major conference except the Big Ten and the Ivy League, both of which get underway next Saturday as do a majority of the other schools from coast to coast.

California and Oregon State, the teams most often mentioned to win the Pacific Coast Conference championship and one of the Rose Bowl berths, both are in action, the Golden Bears against Southern Methodist at Berkeley, Calif., and the Beavers against Southern Cal in a night game at Portland. California is picked by eight points and Oregon State by seven.

In intersectional games, Texas is picked over Georgia, Miami (Fla.) over Houston, Iowa State over Denver, Rice over Louisiana State, Texas Christian over Kansas, Vanderbilt over Missouri, and Wyoming over Kansas State.

By sections it's Detroit over Marquette and Cincinnati over Dayton in the Midwest; North Carolina over North Carolina State, George Washington over William & Mary and West Virginia over Virginia in the South; Arkansas over Oklahoma State, West Texas State over Texas Tech and Tulsa over Hardin - Simmons in the Southwest, and Oregon over Idaho, Stanford over San Jose State, Utah over Montana and Arizona over Brigham Young in the Far West.

In Friday night action, UCLA ruined the Air Force Academy's debut in big-time football by whipping the Falcons, 47-0, at Los Angeles. Tailback Don Long scored twice for the Bruins, who rolled up a 26-0 lead at halftime and then added three more touchdowns in the second half.

Other Friday night games saw Virginia Tech eke out a 14-13 victory over Tulane on first - half TDs by Bobby Conner and Ray England. Tulane rallied in the last quarter on an 86-yard touchdown scamper by Tommy Warner and a quarterback sneak by Gene Newton, but Newton missed his second conversion attempt.

Steelers - Packers Battle Tonight

MINNEAPOLIS (UP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers and the Green Bay Packers meet tonight at Metropolitan Stadium in an exhibition contest expected to draw a capacity crowd.

The game will be the final preseason exhibition tilt for the Steelers.

Green Bay goes into the contest with a string of five consecutive exhibition wins against a 2-3 Pittsburgh record.

Earl Morrall, recently purchased from San Francisco by Pittsburgh, arrived at camp here Friday morning and engaged in practice sessions. The quarterback was not expected to play in tonight's game.

Packer coach Liz Blackburn said he would probably alternate bonus choice Paul Hornung, former Notre Dame star, "between half and full," in the game.

Yanks May Spring Trap on Chisox Today; Slower Process for Braves

By UNITED PRESS

The mighty New York Yankees may spring the trap on the Chicago White Sox by sundown today but it appears it'll be a case of slow strangulation before the Milwaukee Braves choke off the St Louis Cardinals' last hopes.

The stage was set for the final act of the American League pennant race Friday night when the Yankees downed the Boston Red Sox, 7-4, and went seven games in front as a result of the Cleveland Indians' 3-2 triumph over the White Sox. That reduced the Yankees' magic number to two—and it will come up today if the Yankees beat the Red Sox again and the White Sox lose one game of their double-header with the Indians.

The Braves set the Cardinals up for the kill with a 9-3 romp over the Chicago Cubs in an afternoon game but the Redbirds refused to become dead birds by rallying to beat the Cincinnati Redlegs, 7-5, in a 10-inning night game decided by Joe Cunningham's two - run homer. That left the Braves' lead at four games and their magic number at five—with eight games left for each team.

Williams Pinch-Homers

Casey Stengel drew closer to his eighth pennant in nine years when the Yankees built up an early 7-0 lead and then staved off a four-run ninth-inning rally marked by a tremendous pinch-hit homer by Ted Williams. The Red Sox added three runs and kayoed Whitey Ford before Bob Grim came out of the bullpen to restore order.

Ford pitched two - hit ball and struck out eight through the first eight innings. Yogi Berra hammered a three-run homer for the big blow in the Yankees' nine-hit attack which brought Ford his 11th victory compared to four defeats.

The White Sox' loss was a heartbreaker. Dick Donovan carried a 2-1 lead into the ninth as a result of his own homer and one by batterymate Earl Battey only to have the Indians rally for two runs.

The Braves unleashed a 14-hit attack that enabled Warren Spahn to become the majors' first 20-game winner of the year although he needed relief aid from Don McMahon, the fireballing rookie relief specialist.

Cards Need Rally

Cunningham, a deadly pinch-hitter all season, entered the St. Louis lineup as an unsuccessful pinch-swinger in the eighth and remained in the game to deliver the homer that kept the Cards alive. The blow, which followed a walk to Wally Moon, came after the Cardinals rallied from an early 4-1 deficit to tie the score with single runs in the seventh and ninth innings. Stan Musial singled home the seventh - inning run and 42-year-old Walker Cooper singled home the tieing tally in the ninth.

Al Pilarcik doubled home a run in the eighth inning to give the Baltimore Orioles a 1-0 victory over the Washington Senators and Stan Lopata's pinch - hit sacrifice fly climaxed a two-run ninth - inning rally that brought the Philadelphia Phillies a 3-2 decision over the Brooklyn Dodgers in the only other games. Connie Johnson beat Truman Clevenger in the Baltimore - Washington pitching duel while rookie Dick Farrell scored his 10th triumph for the Phillies. The Dodgers had been eliminated from the pennant race when the Braves won their afternoon game with the Cubs.

There was one small consolation for the "Yankee haters of America." Williams' hit raised his average to .379 and he now leads Yankee star Mickey Mantle by 13 points in their batting race. In short, Mantle has about as much chance in his race as the White Sox do in theirs.

Pirates - Giants In Twi-Nighter

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Giants meet in a twi-night doubleheader at Forbes Field today.

The first game will be a contest which was scheduled for Friday night but was postponed because of rain.

Ron Kline (8-16) and rookie George Witt (0-0), who won 17 games for Hollywood in the Pacific Coast League this season, will be the starting pitchers for the Pirates. They will face Giant hurlers Ruben Gomez (14-12) and Curt Barclay (9-8).

The teams meet Sunday in the final home Pirate game of the 1957 season.

FIGHT RESULTS

LOS ANGELES — Archie Moore, 175, San Diego, Calif., stopped Tony Anthony, 172, New York, (7) —retained world light heavyweight title).

Lower Silhouette of Buicks Is One of Many New Features Listed

There are so many new features in the Buicks sold by Mon Valley Motors, 252 East Donner avenue, of which Emil Lenart is dealer, that it would take some time to describe them, but its lower silhouette is very outstanding.

The long-flowing rear fenders are capped by a chrome bezel which houses tail and directional signal lamps and back-up lights.

Two chrome moldings, which extend up over the trunk lid and roof to the windshield, distinguish all standard Roadmaster models. Where the one-piece, panoramic rear window is desired, these chrome moldings are on the trunk lid only.

Two - tone paint in compatible colors is offered as optional on all series with the top and upper body painted one color and the lower body below the sweep-spear, the other.

The lower silhouette of the new Buicks was made possible by changing the frame design to permit the body to nestle between the side rails.

Two entirely new features have been incorporated in the front end suspension system for 1957.

For the first time a ball-joint suspension is used, improving the stability of the car on corners and curves, and a new anti-dive device reduces front end dive on fast stops by approximately 60 per cent.

Coil springs both front and rear are continued on all models.

The horsepower increase was obtained by enlarging the cubic displacement of the engine from 322 to 364 inches and by increasing the compression ratio.

New interior design includes a new steering wheel, new padded instrument panels, which are standard on the Roadmaster, Super and Century, and optional on the Special, and a larger glove compartment, located near the center of the instrument panel.

Optional on all models is a safety minder which buzzes constantly when a pre-determined speed is reached. The safety minder can be set at any speed desired by turning a knob on the instrument panel.

Buick's 1957 line comes in 20 body styles with a two-and four-door hardtop and a convertible in each series. A two-and four-door sedan are offered in the Special series only.

Three estate wagons, two of them in the spectacular four-door hardtop styling, are offered in the Century and Special series.

Special series estate wagons are offered in both the four-door hardtop styling and the regular design which features a center pillar.

The new Buicks come in two wheelbases, 127½ inches for the Roadmaster and Super, and 122 inches for the Century and Special.

Philco Now Out With HTV in '58 Hyper-power TV

Hyper-power—or HTV — is announced in the 1958 Philco television sets now displayed at Burger Appliance store, 409 Schoonmaker avenue in Monessen.

It meant a picture so much better it demanded a new kind of sound!

You need power to make a picture clear and bright!

You need power to give you true natural sound!

You need power to bring in distant channels...to knock out interference, ghosts, flutter and snow.

That's why electronics engineers have worked for years to put more power into television receivers. Now Philco has found a way to tremendous power to TV reception. It's called Hyper-power.... or HTV.

You'll see the difference Hyper-power makes the instant you turn on a new 1958 Philco HTV set. The picture is better, clearer, more powerful than any you've ever seen. Philco Hyper-power television gives you reserve power... power to spare. When you see Philco Hyper-power pictures, you'll see why HTV demanded a new kind of sound.....

C.; Lewis, New Eagle and Robert, Belle Vernon; four sisters, Mrs. Iona Scanlon and Mrs. Nancy Trombino, both of Belle Vernon; Mrs. Janet Brandemarte, Donora and Mrs. Margaret Stanko, Gallatin. Friends are being received at the Kisinger Funeral Home, Brownsville, where funeral services will be held Sunday Sept. 22, at 2.30 p. m. The Rev. William Howard Ryall, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church of Brownsville will officiate. Interment will be in the Highland Cemetery, California. Kisinger Funeral Home, funeral director.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Emma A. Hazelbaker Hellyer, who died eight years ago tomorrow, September 22, 1949.
They say time heals all sorrow, and helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proved how much we miss you yet.
God gave us strength to fight it and courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose you, no one will ever know.
Sadly missed by husband, Zern Hellyer, Son and Daughter.

In loving memory of our dear husband, father, son and brother, John R. Rusnak, who died three years ago today, September 21, 1954.
A light is from our household gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
Some may think you are forgotten
Though on earth you are no more
But in memory you are with us
As you always were before
You have left us in this world of grief and sorrow,
To the land of peace and rest.
The flowers we place upon your grave
May wither and decay,
But we hope to meet again
On Heaven's peaceful shore
Sadly missed by Wife, Rose; daughters, Valeria and Brenda, parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rusnak and Family.

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Frank Orsilli, who died five years ago, September 20, 1952.
You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes on we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place
Sadly missed by Wife, Sons, Daughters and Grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Samuel Varega, who died five years ago tomorrow, September 22, 1952
There are those who miss you sadly,
And find time long since you went
We think of you hourly and daily,
But try to be brave and content
But there are tears we shed in silence
As we breathe a sigh of regret;
You were ours and we remember
Though all of the world forgets.
Sadly missed by Wife, Sons, Daughters and Family.

Rainiers Hope For Prince as Heir to Throne

MONTE CARLO (UP) — Most Monagasques said today they hoped Princess Grace and Prince Rainier's new baby would be a brother for Princess Caroline.

Monaco was delighted at the news issued Friday night that their royal family is expecting another child late in March. But it was not as excited as at the announcement of Princess Grace's first pregnancy.

The birth of Princess Caroline eight months ago assured them of an heiress to the throne. As long as the royal line exists, Monaco remains an independent, tax-free principality. If the line dies, it reverts to France and becomes subject to French taxes.

Crowds gathered in the courtyard Friday night hoping for an appearance on the balcony of Prince Rainier and his former movie-star wife, but they did not show.

Meet Monday

An adjourned meeting of the Rostraver Twp. Board of Education will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in the Junior High building, it was announced today by Secretary Marian Driscoll.

Mrs. Betty Patterson Scaccia, of Broad Ave. Ext., is a patient in Magee Hospital, Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cornell, of Webster, and Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Markleysburg, spent the weekend at Ripley, N. Y.

Webster Church Society Meeting Held Recently

The Missionary Society of Webster Presbyterian Church met Wednesday in the Sunday School room. Lillie Snyder was in charge of devotions, using as her topic "In That Spirit".

Followeng a scripture reading by Lyda Stevenson, articles were read by Lois Thompson, "We Will Witness to the Eternal Hope of Redeeming Love", and "People are Important". William Maurer closed devotions with prayer.

Business was in charge of Lois Thompson, president. After a prayer by Dora Ritchie, reports were given by June Cupples. Nora Maurer and Dorothy Byers were appointed for "The Study Commission". The president announced that open house will be held at Oakmont Thursday. Everyone is welcome.

A family night supper is being planned for the next meeting.

Lyda Stevenson, Lois Bainbridge and Annie Hilderbran were appointed as nominating committeemen and will present names for offices for the coming year at the next meeting.

Lunch was served by Virginia Fagan and Mary Ellen Steinmaker. Margaret Reidel said grace. Others present were Rosina Gillingham, Carol Lewis, Maude Phythyon, Agnes Leonard and Kathyrn Wilson.

Fells Methodist Good Samaritan Class Convenes

The regular monthly meeting of the Good Samaritan Class of Fells Methodist Church was held Monday in the church upper room. Devotions were led by Mrs. Flora Cuthbert.

During devotions the class sang "Sweet Hour of Prayer". The evening's topic was "A Challange to Prayer". Mrs. Cuthbert closed with prayer.

In the business session, reports were given by Mrs. Louise Long, secretary, and Mrs. Elsie Lewis, treasurer. A motion was made and passed to purchase a new flag for the upper room.

Following a list of candidates submitted by the nominating committee, the following were elected: Mrs. Bess Haury, president; Mrs. Louise Long, vice-president; Mrs. Helen Brown, secretary, and Mrs. Elsie Lewis, treasurer.

After the meeting the group played scrabble with prizes given to the top scorers.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Ethel Weightman, Mrs. Margaret Stoneman and Mrs. Florence Sickles.

Guest speaker at Pricedale Union Church tomorrow will be Douglas Stratton, of New Jersey. He is the son-in-law of the Rev. Unger, former pastor of Donora Baptist Church. Services will be at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Mary Carnes Is Class Leader Of Ladies Class

The Ladies Adult Class of Pricedale Union Sunday School met Thursday at the recreation hall with Mary Carnes, president, in charge.

After the group recited The Lord's Prayer, the leader read "The Do Mores", "Choice Bets" and "Candle in the Window". Singing of "I Have a Joy" was followed by silent prayer and a reading by the leader, "An Evening Prayer".

During the business meeting Mary Echart gave the treasurer's report. Roll call was answered by a verse from scripture.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Eva Williamson with Mary Echart as devotional leader.

Games were under the direction of Nora White. A pot luck lunch was served.

Others present included Louise Bridge, Irene Usher, Janet Rodebaugh, Annie Bush, Barbara Huscroft, Kathryn Burkett, Margaret Smith, Lydia Popp and Minnie Charlton.

Rehoboth Church Group Is Host To Brotherhoods

The Brotherhood of Rehoboth Church, along with Brotherhoods from other Presbyterian Churches in Area Two, met Thursday at Webster Presbyterian Church.

Devotions were in charge of Elmer Gillingham, Pete Cupples offered prayer, William Maurer led music and William Igoe gave a reading. A film on safety was shown

The business was in charge of William Wagner, area president.

It was announced that a rally of men of Redstone Presbytery will be held Oct. 15 at Rehoboth Church. Guest speaker will be Rev. Spellman, of Pittsburgh.

Thirty-two were present.

Lunch was served by Teddy Leonard, Pete Cupples and Sam Coloseno, of Webster Church. The Rev. Abner Richard Jr., of Monessen, gave the invocation.

Dental Work Can Be Speeded Up by New Fast-working Drill

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

I had a rather unique experience at the dentist's office the other day. Recently he procured some new equipment and for the first time he worked on my teeth with his new high-speed drill.

Actually, this drill invented by Dr. Richard W. Page, of Chappaqua, New York, is not exactly new.

He developed it several years ago and some 2,000 dentists have already used it. Furthermore, not long ago, a national magazine devoted a sizeable article to this drill, which reaches speeds up to 200,000 revolutions per minute.

But this is the only chance I've had to give you a first-hand account of what one actually is like from a patient's viewpoint.

The high-speed drill does not eliminate pain. Even the inventor doesn't claim this. It does, however, lessen pain to quite an extent.

For one thing, there is considerably less vibration that when an ordinary drill is used. Also, the high-speed drill generates less heat and the shock to tooth structure is greatly reduced.

Dr. Page recommends, and I agree, that if you normally take anesthesia when dental work is being performed, you should continue doing so even when the new drill is used on your teeth. You'll feel more relaxed and the dentist will be able to do a better job if you do.

The sound produced by the high-speed motor and the continuous blast of compressed air required to prevent tooth debris from fouling up the mechanism, might be a little awesome at first. My dentist prepared me for it by carefully explaining details and advantages of the drill first.

Probably the greatest advantage of the device is that it cuts drilling time in half. Generally, this enables a dentist to fill two teeth in the time it formerly would have taken to fill one. That means fewer trips to the dentist for you.

The drill makes things a lot easier for the dentist as well as for his patients. While a standard drill requires about two pounds of pressure, the high-speed unit needs only two ounces.

It's another big step forward in dentistry.

Question and Answer

T. R.: Both my parents are allergic. Does this mean that I will have allergies also?

Answer: Children who have two allergic parents are much more likely to have an allergy than those who do not or who have only one allergic parent. There is also a greater tendency for the allergy to appear at an earlier age.

TV NOTES

The Norman Luboff Choir has been added to the long list of talent lined up for "Crescendo" on CBS Sept. 29.

The first Jerry Lewis show for NBC this season will be on Nov. 5 from 9 to 10 p. m.

The World War II work of the Office of Strategic Services will form the basis for a new filmed series, "O.S.S.," which ABC will introduce Sept. 26; Thursdays at 9:30 p. m. British actor Ron Randall will have the leading role.

NBC estimates that the number of TV stations in the United States capable of broadcasting in color was 278 as of July 1. Of these, 143 are affiliated with NBC. The industry increase was 21 stations since last Jan. 1.

June Allyson, Jimmy Durante, Marge and Gower Champion, Brandon de Wilde, Bert Lahr, Eddie Mayehoff, Jane Powell, Kay Starr and Kay Thompson head the large cast signed for "The Standard Oil (N. J.) 75th Anniversary Show" on NBC Oct. 13 from 9 to 10:30 p. m. The variety show will be in color and originate live in New York.

Comedian Ernie Kovacs will make his debut as a dramatic actor Sept. 26 on the "Playhouse 90" version of an old Marcel Pagnol stage success, "Topaze." He will play a school teacher who gets mixed up with an embezzler.

Adult TV School of Air to Start Monday

Monday has been set as the starting date this year of the Adult TV School of the Air to be telecast over Channel 13 following one week of introduction to the courses.

The adult school program combines top studio presentation by expert high school and college teachers with outlined self-study exercises to be pursued by the student. After three years of the program's operation, more than 150 high school diplomas have been granted through the Pennsylvania State Department of Public Instruction and the Pittsburgh Public Schools.

WQED General Manager John F. White said this is one of the direct educational contributions which television can make to thousands of adults in Western Pennsylvania who have been deprived of the opportunity to finish high school, to get a better job, or to enter college.

It is being made possible through but little inconvience since WQED provides the student study guide, textbooks at a nominal cost, and charges a fee of only $2.00 per course for other services which include identifying the subjects a student needs for graduation and for processing applications for accreditation.

Dr. Harry A. Snyder, director of extension education, Pittsburgh schools, and producer of Adult School of the Air, has designed an accelerated program of studies which has special application to World War II and Korean veterans. Offered will be English, American history; and business arithmetic and general mathematics for the first semester; and English, world history, general science and senior science for the second semester.

"The completion of this curricula," says Dr. Snyder, "will enable all veterans (without regard to previous education) to secure their high school diploma by June, 1958, since in the State of Pennsylvania an additional six Carnegie units are granted by passing the comprehensive United States Armed Forces Institute General Education Development Test." (This test is administered by the Board of Public Education without charge to veterans irrespective of residence, Dr. Snyder added.)

The TV classes are conduted on Monday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 7 o'clock, and the faculty includes Dr. James Kehl, of the University of Pittsburgh, (American history); Miss Elizabeth Warnock, of Taylor Allderdice High School, (English); and Nicholas Huslak, of the Baldwin Township Schools, (mathematics).

New Asian Flu Warning Issued By N. Y. Doctor

By UNITED PRESS

The new and fast - spreading Asian flu now sweeping across North America may be the forerunner of a deadly epidemic, a New York doctor warned Friday.

The type of Asian flu already building up to epidemic proportions in Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and many other states, as well as foreign countries, is comparatively mild.

But Dr. Perrin H. Long of New York City's College of Medicine said in Montreal that the worldwide flu epidemic of 1919 and the North American outbreak in 1929 followed a three-stage pattern.

A mild outbreak causing few deaths was followed by a severe outbreak with many fatalities. The epidemics tapered off in the third stage, which was similar to the first.

Already, more than 100,000 persons have been stricken with Asian flu in the United States.

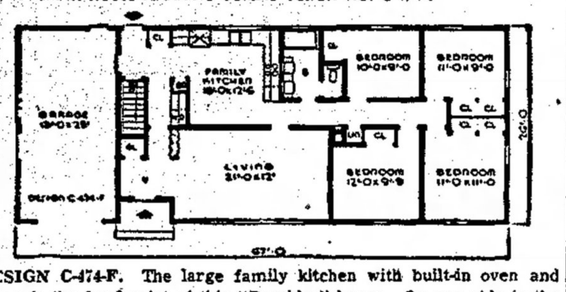
A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO. C-474-F



DESIGN C-474-F. The large family kitchen with built-in oven and range is the focal point of this "Rambler" house. On one side is the large bathroom with two built-in lavatories and on the other side is the rear entry and utility area with direct access to the front vestibule, the garage and a full basement. The four bedrooms have wardrobe type closets.

A straight simple hip roof with asphalt shingles enhances the straight-forward design of the exterior which has wide wood shingle siding. Not including the garage, the floor area is 1370 sq. ft. with a cubage of 25,345 cu. ft.

For further information about DESIGN C-474-F, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn.

Make Careful Check When Buying Home

Put yourself in the position of a prospective buyer if you plan to sell your home in today's highly competitive "older house" market.

Make a careful inspection tour of the house from basement to attic, and the lot from border to border, just as a house-hunting family would. Chances are good that if you, in effect, would "buy your own house," you can put up a "For Sale" sign with reasonable confidence.

A good place to start, according to many experienced real estate brokers, is at the curb, where a prospect gets his first impression. Are the lawn, shrubbery, and flower beds in good shape? If not, prospective buyers might not even stop to look.

Check Roof Carefuly

Next, check the exterior of the house, paying special attention to the roof. Faded paint or a cracked piece of siding may not ruin a sale, but an old, shabby roof often will send a prospect scurrying back to his car.

This is because families looking for an older house today generally come forewarned with a list of things to look out for, and a weathered, worn-out roof is one of them. The prospect knows an old roof may be a leaky roof.

A new roof of asphalt shingles in one of many colors available is an excellent selling point for an older home. Besides assuring the prospective owner long lasting protection from weather, the new asphalt shingles add color and beauty to the house.

Inside, real estate men say, good housekeeping is essential when a house is up for sale. Clean, neat rooms reflect the habits of the owners which in turn indicate the type of care the house has received.

If painted walls or wallpaper are shabby, interior redecoration probably is in order. A small expenditure for paint, plus some week-end labor with brush and roller can add immeasurably to the resale value of a house.

The plumbing and heating systems should be in good working order, and windows and doors should operate smoothly. A good thing to keep in mind is that the prospective buyer of an older home does not expect everything to be shiny and new, but he does want a house to be in sound, livable condition.

Shower Heads Have Changed Through Years

Shower heads have been doing a midget act in recent years. Once they were large, around 6 inches in diameter, then they dropped down to around 4 inches, and now many typical shower heads are from 1¾ to 2 inches in diameter. A few are even smaller.

Aside from the obvious economy in original first cost, there is also an advantage in operating cost because the smaller heads take less water, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau points out. Less hot water means less money for heating water.

Yet despite its vest-pocket size, the smaller shower head provides a better shower than the older larger models. When installed at the typical height of 5 feet, 6 inches, the smaller head describes a shower pattern of 20 inches in diameter.

This larger showering area is made possible by a ball and socket joint on which the head is attached.

You don't need a toothpick, screw driver, or ice pick to clean a modern shower head. Many can be cleaned by turning a lever which allows a full stream to wash scale and sediment away. Others are cleaned by turning a knob which permits the face to come out for cleaning.

The installation of a shower, either over a bathtub or in a separate compartment, is an ideal modernization project. Shower equipment is available especially for old bathrooms where it can be installed over the bathtub without marring or breaking into the wall.

Dampen Sandpaper

Sandpaper will last longer, work better, and resist cracking if the paper back is dampened slightly.

Women Taking Role In Planning Home

Add the local building-material dealer to the list of places from which the "Men only" sign is disappearing.

An executive of the Goodman Lumber Co., of San Francisco, says women are taking an ever increasing part in the selection of such materials as roofing, siding, windows, and doors — "Anything that has a role in the appearance of a house."

Jack Pelzner, of the Goodman firm, says the reason is that women today are insisting on more colors and textured materials on the outside of their homes as well as on the inside.

"And we've got more colorful materials to offer these days than ever before," says Pelzner. "For instance, its pretty rare when a woman can't find the color she's looking for in our rack of paint chips or our display of asphalt shingles.

Wives' Help Sought

The Goodman firm, one of the largest building-material dealers in the San Francisco area, encourages husbands to bring their wives when they buy building materials.

"As a team," says Pelzner, "the man and wife can decide more quickly what they want, and they're more likely to be satisfied.

"The husband usually is looking for quality and a product that will be easy to apply or install, while the wife generally is concerned only with appearance. She wants materials that come in colors, or which can be painted to suit her tastes and harmonize with the decor of her home."

Woman Was Right

"The husband took a liking to a soft, green blend of asphalt shingles in a deep tone, but his wife explained that a dark-color roof on their ranch style home would make it look smaller, while a light color would give the house an appearance of height. They selected a light beige and later the husband came back and told me she was right, that the house does seem larger with its new light roof."

Most building-material dealers are welcoming the femine invasion of their yards and buildings, Pelzner says, and are stocking more and more items appealing to women.

These include shutters and louver doors of ponderosa pine which add texture to home decor, and greater varieties of pine panel doors and wood windows which can be painted or stained to suit the housewives' tastes.

Paint departments have been panded, wallpaper lines have been added and many dealers now carry a line of light, specially-designed tools for the home handyma'am.

Modernization of The New House Is Latest Twist

And now they're modernizing the new house.

This new twist to the home improvement story came out at the recent 75th annual convention of the National Association of Plumbing Contractors in Dallas, Texas.

Many contractors reported that they are finding considerable work in houses built only two or three years ago. The installation of an additional bathroom to take care of the requirements of a rapidly increasing family was most often mentioned, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

Other contractors reported that they installed larger water heaters in comparatively new houses when owners had found that hot-water-using appliances and the water requirements of extra bathrooms caused a hot water famine.

Another popular modernization activity in new houses is the installation of a waste disposal unit.

In the heating field, some contractors mentioned the conversion of breezeways into usable and enclosed rooms in houses only one or two years old. Pressure for more living space resulting from larger families is the reason.

Involving both plumbing and heating is the construction of a room and bath for a maid or member of the family over the roof of an attached garage.

Asphalt Shingles Handy in Winter

A few asphalt shingles tossed into the trunk of your car now may get you out of a tight spot next winter. Placed under the rear wheels, the shingles give good traction when the car is stuck in snow or on ice.

This traction comes from the mineral granules embedded in the surface of the asphalt shingles, giving them the rough toughness of rock for long service on a roof.
